Hi Erin-
See and you thought getting up and going to work in the morning was a drag. Excitement!! The unusual! Never the mundanell

If you would please include Scott McArthur on this type mail. He is going to take the investigative initiative on all those that have a requirement. Leave me on just to cover if he is too busy elsewhere.

Thanks.

William,

I have taken the liberty of sending a death threat to someone and forging your name and digniture to it. (No need to thank me, I just like to help out.)

I don't usually take this kind of arbitrary action (unless I'm running low on meds) but I thought drastic measures were called for when I came across evidence that your name is about to be sullied and your business endangered, due to a plot between a psychotic lunatic and an employee of yours who is an agent for a secret organization which has been responsible for inspiring and supporting a wide range of anti-technological terrorists, including the UnaBomber and the genius behind the PS/2.

Who are these people, you ask? (I have extremely good ears.)

Bubba Rom Dos, TruthMonger and Blanc Weber.

All card-carrying members of the Circle of Eunuchs.

I have long suspected that a series of underground manuscripts titled 'The True Story of the InterNet' had, as their ultimate aim, the total destruction of MicroSoft. Sure enough, in Part III of the series, "InfoWar," the author, known as TruthMonger, suggests:

"Video World, and TV World. Those were the titles we had put to Part II of 'The True Story of the InterNet.' But that was before the censorship crisis on the CypherPunks mailing list, when we saw the sticky, tangled tentacles that lay at the root of the World Wide Web.

"And before Gomez began to build his Evil Empire on the cornerstone of WebTV."

Part II, "WebWorld & the Mythical Circle of Eunuchs," reveals the role played by Blanc Weber in her subversive intentions to help in the destruction of MicroSoft, in order to promote her own secret technologies.

Apparently, HydroCube storage technology had been in existence for some time before its official announcement by BabyGates Technology. The Kid, as she was called, had been the daughter, lover, or employee of the richest man in the world, depending on which version of this era you believed. Her star had risen, even as Microsoft's star had begun to fall, mostly as a result of her development of the HydroCube, with its nearly infinite data-storage capacity.

And now, Jonathan had reason to believe that the Kid had actually been a member of the CypherPunks, masquerading under the pseudonym of Blanc Weber.

So, as you can plainly see, it is only a matter of time before these self-proclaimed Freeh->dumb Fighters, decide to begin openly attacking you with slanderous truths about yourself, Gomez and the Dark Allies, the lady midget wrestler and the bed full of chickens, as well as the role of Susan Canizales as your dietary aide.

Yes, I know...you are shaking in your boots at the prospect of these facts coming out (complete with 4"x8" color graphics), but there are actions you can take to thwart these dire possibilities.

Fortunately, Part III is being released on the cypherpunks@toad.com mailing list, under the TruthMonger multi-user persona, who has formed a secret alliance with the Cypherpunks' distributed persona, Anonymous.

Thus, if you act quickly, you might be able to strike first, writing your own chapter of Part III and sending it to the Cypherpunks list, anonymously, copyrighting it as "TruthMonger <billg@microsoft.com>" in order to piss in the face of the known list forger who is known to be responsible for many of the chapters submitted. (Then you could sue the bastard!)

In your chapter, you could give yourself any role you desired in the history, present and future of humankind.

My suggestion would be to beat these rascallions to the punch by using the Taoist tactic of creating 'yourself' as an evil creature of your own design--far more diabolical than even your enemies could imagine.

The Circle of Eunuchs would then be honor-bound, as cross-matchers (under NLP theology), to assign you a role as a secret hero in a later chapter, thus saving you the embarrassment of having to blow your own horn to keep the Universe in balance.

Sameer, president of C2Net, is reportedly under heavy medication by his physician as the result of the stress of trying to think of something positive he can say about himself and his organization, under the savage attacks against his corporation and his private person by these evil conspirators.

In conclusion, I would add that it is traditional to reward/torture the masochistic, paranoid schizophrenic who supplies many of the more bizarre of the CoE's conspiracy theories, by adding some subtle hint pointing to some future event in history, based on your own inside knowledge. (The point being to make it glaringly obvious to crazed conspiracy theorists, but something that will make them look 'crazy' if they try pointing it out to normal people.)

An AT&T employee once made a prophetic claim in the series to an event which proved to be true in concept, way off-base in details, except that
