Once upon a time, TruthMonger spaketh:

In my last thinly veiled death threat to BadBillyC, I told him to tell Ms. Justice-Is-Not-Only-BLIND-It's-UGLY-Too that "MICRO$NOT is to INSLAW...as...ChainSaws are to ButterKnives."

It had nothing to do with the Indigo Girls CD that woke me up this morning reminding me of Indio, Indians and INSLAW, and everything to do with Micro$not Ba$hing (TM) being every bit as sacred as having a butt on the crapper in the morning. When America can no longer count on the Little Guy to war against such basic human degradations as Life Under DOS, then we are doomed--individually and as a nation.

Attila,

Had to get on the road home. Baby is my early-warning system, and she seemed to think we should get out of Dodge while the getting was good.

Enjoyed our BS-session.

Your views/description of your neighborhood/neighbors reinforces my belief that the hope of society and humankind lies in individuals and small cells of individuals making the ground they inhabit the starting point for building a world based on sanity and reality.

The fights between the Big Dogs is just that--between them. Whether one appears to be fighting with'em, or agin'em, the main thing is to try to keep them at each other's throats (and hopefully away from our own).

I would love to see Nut$scrape and $un Micro$y$tems take a sizeable love-byte out of Micro$not's Wevil Wimpire, but not by cutting BadBillyG out of the consumer-loop.

All those a$$hole$ are doing is trying to do is to keep Micro$not from forcing their competition to get mean, lean, and deliver products to the masses that kick-ass.

The problem, of course, is that the fuckers' goal is not to eliminate BadBillyG, but to *become*/*replace* him. (BillyClub-envy?)

I just spent a couple of weeks reconnoitering the home of an IBM executive living in San Vacas Estates, in Tucson. The residents of the million-dollar estates in the exclusive enclave have their utility bills subsidized by the peons living below them, who pay higher rates than the rich folks in the hills who have armed guards monitoring access to the area in order to keep the riff-raff away.

I really don't mind the Micro$not Ba$hing Coalition owning yachts and vacation homes in the Swiss Alps, but I am not interested in supporting their goal of having as many expensive toys as BillyG. I use Nut$scrape 80% because I prefer it as a browser, and 20% to keep BadBillyG from owning everything and everybody. If Nut$crate executives would spend a little less time on their yachts, and a little more time improving their mail program, then they wouldn't have to spend as much time trying to squeeze out Eudora, the same way that Micro$not is putting the squeeze on them.

Big fish eat little fish.

I don't see any percentage in backing the Micro$not Ba$her$' attempts to enforce rules designed to make the biggest fish swim slower. Rather, if the motherfuckers want my support, they'd better be prepared to provide me with a superior quality of life between now and the time that they finally gobble me up.

I can live with being a free-range Sheeple, but if the fuckers try to put me in a crowded pen and feed me garbage, then they are going to find out that animal diseases that kill humans are not a sickness, they are revenge.

Gnu World DisOrder is not a disease...it's a cure.

Blanc,

It is imperative that 'good impressions' *be* corrupted, in order to allow each individual the opportunity to look beyond surface appearances, as well as beyond their own individual meta-programming, to see the true meaning behind what another individual is genuinely trying to communicate.

If BillyG can't figure out that my affection for M$Word is sufficient to keep me from being a danger to his physical safety, then it is only his inbred paranoia that keeps him from using the funds he expends in investigating me to increase the reserves of the TruthMonger Beer Fund.

It is much more difficult to 'corrupt' a 'bad impression' than it is to do so to a 'good impression'.

Nonetheless, I often succeed in doing so, and those members of the Circle of Eunuchs who keep their dues paid up have no difficulty in recognizing that no matter what direction my mad ramblings appear to be taking, it is up to each and every person who reads my missives to make their own judgements as to how they can be used to expand their world view to encompass more than their mommy and daddy taught them.

I value your communications highly, and I am certain that I often glean from them concepts that you are not consciously aware that you are expressing. My own posts are similar, the difference being that mine contain clues as to the location of the many innocent children I have murdered and buried in remote locations over the years.

Oops! Please forget I mentioned that...

There is already too much contradiction and confusion in the world. I don't agree with you about this matter at all, as it is very difficult for some people to see the truth in the first place, much less to distinguish
it from foolishness.

Billg doesn't have that much time to spend figuring out whether your threats are real or not. I don't expect anyone from his office ewill be chasing you down, though - they might only keep your email in a mail
file
for future reference, in case you attempt anything for real. In any case,
I would be most pleased if you would leave my name out of this type of correspondence to him, thanks.
